BVPI is committed to support all of our clients globally in the face of the COVID-19 crisis

As a mission critical facility service partner, our job is to ensure that the facilities we support remain uninterrupted and do not cause a negative impact on business activities, while maintaining the safety, health and wellbeing of our BVPI family. At this point, we have been able to support our Clients and projects by maintaining a regular operating schedule. Preserving the confidence and trust of our business partners by proactively ensuring the reliability and continuity of our services is critical to our business. We have hardened our business continuity plan to minimize any disruption of our services while protecting the health and safety of our employees and clients.

We have:

- Reinforced CDC guidance and preventative measures onsite at all of our project locations and are working closely with our clients and project managers to ensure that our employees are able to continue to work safely
- Responded to State and local travel restrictions by geographically rebalancing some of our 150+ technical field employees to ensure our ability to continue to deliver our services
- Created a COVID-19 corporate crisis committee to ensure open communication and swift response to any issue that presents itself with our employees and clients

With many jobs at risk as COVID-19 continues to cause mass disruption to our global economy, BVPI stands ready to help our industry in any way that we can.

The health and well-being of our BVPI family and our partners is our top priority and an ABSOLUTE in our organization. BVPI is here to support your project needs and stands ready to help our industry. Tell us how we can help you.
